Dear All,
 Greetings from NASSCOM

The Business Process Management industry, is an exciting career option, especially for those who enjoy missing the complex scripts and learning how digital and emerging technologies powerfully drive business processes.

If you want to become a domain expert or a technology pundit, then NASSCOM invites you to explore opportunities during a webinar on building a successful career in the BPM industry. During the session, we will talk about the journey of knowledge and discovery with our latest learning module specifically designed for the needs of students and the industry.

There are four reasons why you should consider the training module:

- > It features world-class training material
- > The module's content is recognized for its quality by leading organizations in the industry
- > It will help polish your ability and skills to hold nuanced conversations during interviews and give you an edge in your career
- > You will receive FutureSkills badges on completion of your course, these can be displayed on your LinkedIn profile

Give yourself the best possible start. We look forward to meeting you at the webinar
