INSTITUTIONAL DISTINCTIVENESS

Our institution is dedicated to the holistic development of each student, aiming to deliver value-driven education that emphasizes both equity and excellence. To nurture a learning-oriented attitude at the undergraduate level, we provide ample opportunities for students to actively participate in curricular, co-curricular, and extension activities, fostering a well-rounded education.

The Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC) plays a crucial role in enhancing the learning experience by establishing various student-focused committees, each with dedicated coordinators and members. Committees like Cultural, NSS, NCC, Women's Wing (Spandana), and the Placement Cell focus on empowering students with knowledge, skills, and creativity, equipping them to face global challenges confidently and with a scientific mindset.

Through the NSS and NCC, students engage in co-curricular and community activities, promoting strong social values. The NSS regularly organizes blood donation drives in partnership with organizations like Lions Club, Red Cross Society, and local hospitals, collecting over 250 units of blood each year. The NCC offers extensive training for cadets to excel in national camps. Meanwhile, the Placement Cell actively provides career guidance and professional training to enhance employability and foster entrepreneurial abilities. The Women's Wing, Spandana, holds gender-sensitization programs to empower female students, while the Science and Research Forum regularly hosts lectures from prominent researchers to inspire scientific curiosity. The Commerce Forum, run by the Commerce Department, organizes timely budget reviews and invites experts to discuss pressing economic topics.

Beyond academic development, we support students from economically disadvantaged backgrounds with fee concessions, endowment scholarships, and JES Student Aid Scholarships. Priority admission is given to students from rural or agricultural backgrounds, considering social factors over academic scores alone. The college schedule, from 7:30 a.m. to 1:00 p.m., allows students the flexibility to pursue part-time work, a vital support for many from low-income families.
